Uniselinus is accredited by QAHE International

International Association for Quality Assurance in Higher Education (QAHE) is an independent, private and international organization which is funded through fees charged for its accreditation services to Certification Bodies and Training Organizations.. We use our expertise to support the development of quality assurance systems worldwide. As the accrediting agency has grown in size and complexity, the quality assurance systems have evolved and, progressively, tasks are articulated and delegated, with official certifications.

Besides traditional higher education, distance education, vocational education and the need for recognition of prior learning are all important subjects in the field of higher education. The drastic change in higher education requires QAHE to enhance the quality assurance mechanism.

QAHE recognizes higher education institutions for research performance, student services and teaching quality to value the confidence of the public. Our accreditation of higher education institutions is a voluntary and non governmental process of quality assurance and institutional development.

FOR QUALITY ASSURANCE IN HIGHER EDUCATION
OUR MISSION IS TO ENHANCE THE

Uniselinus is accredited by American Association for Higher Education (AAHEA)

American Association for Higher Education (AAHEA) is the oldest non-profit association in the United States dedicated to the advancement of higher education. The American Association for Higher Education (AAHE) is an independent professional membership organization that promotes change and reform in higher education, fosters quality teaching and learning at the college and university level, and promotes public awareness of the value of higher education in the United States. The AAHE's objectives include identifying and analyzing critical problems, trends, and developments in higher education and seeking constructive solutions; helping to coordinate the efforts of educational institutions and agencies at all levels; encouraging the improvement of professional work in all areas of higher education; and developing a better understanding by the general public of higher education and of college teaching as a profession. In pursuing these goals, the AAHE provides a forum for the expression of ideas relating to higher education and public policy.

Founded in 1870, the AAHE was one of four original departments of the National Education Association (NEA). It was then known as the Department of Higher Education. In 1952 the name was changed to the Association for Higher Education, and in 1967 to the American Association for Higher Education. A major turning point in the history of the AAHE occurred in 1968, when it elected to move from a departmental relationship with the NEA to the status of independent organization.

In February 2007, the name was changed to AAHEA, The American Association For Higher Education and Accreditation, to better reflect its expanded mission. The AAHE is governed by a twenty-member board of directors, which is headed by a chair and a chairelect. Board members are chosen by AAHE members by mail ballot each year.

The board establishes policy, determines programs, and appoints committees as needed. The day-to-day operations of the AAHE are overseen by a staff of approximately twenty-five individuals under the direction of an appointed president.

WORLD CERTIFICATION INSTITUTE ACCREDITS SELINUS UNIVERSITY DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (PHD) BY RESEARCH PROGRAMME

The Philosophy Doctor (PhD) program by Research via Distance Learning has been accredited by the WCI (World Certification Institute). The role of WCI is to accredit courses conducted by universities, colleges, schools, professional institutes and other educational institutions.

The accreditation process for study programs is very rigorous.

This process involves a detailed examination of the course content and duration; qualifications and skills of teachers and supervisors; financial strength and integrity of course providers; available facilities and resources; method of delivery and evaluation and, above all, their relevance for professional and career development.

When a study program is successfully accredited, graduates of the accredited course are deemed to have met the qualification criteria for WCI certified credentials.

As an accredited institution we have received the Certificate of Accreditation from the WCI which describes the accredited program and the level of eligibility.

From now the Certificate of Selinus University will include the phrase: "Course accredited by the World Certification Institute", next to the WCI logo.

This will allow, in any country, a rapid recognition of the value of the program and of the candidate who obtained the PhD.
