Master's Degree

Selinus University is a distance learning institute that provides its programs worldwide. It includes 7 faculties and nearly 200 study programs so as to meet adult students' needs; we assume that our potential students are willing to find a job in industry and trade or to become professionals or companies' titleholders.

Selinus University has a clear vision of its work, study programs and our international students' needs. We claim that research, innovation and professionalism are the basis of every life and work project.

Through the APEL (Accreditation Prior Experiential Learning) validation system, our institution is engaged in the students' profiles evaluations in order to outline professionalism and skills of its potential graduates, hopefully, the future global market leaders.

The modern job market operates on an increasingly larger scale; this awareness strengthens our conviction that any study project has to be supported by precise strategies useful to the students.

Selinus University strategic vision

The main objective of Selinus University is to strengthen the professional and academic profile of adult students willing to access jobs, enhance their career or engage in new projects implementation.

Our students are often managers or already qualified professionals. They can benefit from our distance learning system since they won't need stealing time to their jobs nor neglecting their families.

We trust every adult student's professional goals awareness and we strongly believe in people's capacity for self-determination. Carrying out a distance program without campus attending commitment will let the student prove his/her personality, improve his/her self-esteem and achieve the set goals.

For this reason, we have implemented seven faculties and almost two hundred study programs, many of which are "alternative" to traditional universities; it will be easy for the student to find the right path to professional success.

How to get a Master's degree

According to the British and Commonwealth systems, a Master degree has an average duration of two years. To achieve a Selinus University Master title, you need 40 Uniselinus Credits, equivalent to 80 ECTS beyond the Bachelor's degree.

A Selinus Master's Degree can be obtained either through a system of ordinary studies (that involves taking all the course exams), or through the APEL assessment; the latter is a validation system of every candidate's previous professional experience. That obviously allows a proportional reduction in credits program access requirement and, consequently, in exams to be taken. In case the CV APEL validation reaches 25 credits, the final thesis can be directly accessed. The Master's degree can be either humanistic (M. Arts) or scientific (M.Sc.). In addition to the credits obtained, a final thesis (at least 60 pages) is compulsory.

The Master degree is a high level of academic specialization that allows access to PhD programs besides acting as a valid job springboard. Selinus innovative and flexible study method evaluates all previous students' activities, as well as their skills and profiles.

Selinus University's study programs are distance and online courses whose exams are not traditionally carried out; they consist in reports writing (Exam units) on specific textbooks to be read and studied.

All issued degrees are notarized and legalized through regular Government Apostille valid in all countries of The Hague Convention.

Candidates

Selinus University Masters' candidate are usually professionals, entrepreneurs, managers, cultural operators, high-profile people in possession of a Bachelor's degree or equivalent.

Master's program access requirements are assessed through a strict CV verification and evaluation process and do not strictly follow local educational models: each country has its own academic framework. That means that government accreditation guidelines for programs do not always coincide all over the world.

Selinus issues unregulated higher education programs based on the constitutional freedom to organize education. It is to be understood that private certificates and degrees may not guarantee access to government employment. Given that, Selinus University operates in total transparency and so far, its strict assessments and accreditations have allowed its graduates to access high profile jobs in multinational corporations, NGOs, private companies as well as unregulated professions. Before enrolment, the candidates' academic assessment and the rigorous real skills, attitudes and abilities verification are the perfect guarantee of the match between their specific professional competence and their achieved degree.

Costs

The entire program cost is determined by the 40 credits number required to obtain the degree. The cost per credit is 150 euros; the total is therefore € 6000. In case the Master program relies entirely on APEL validation system, CV credits validation may gain a cost/credits reduction up to 70%. Thus, the cost ranges from a minimum of 2.000 to a maximum of 6.000 euros.

It is necessary to send a thoroughly detailed CV in order to know the study program cost. Within a few days, the Secretariat will process the candidate's CV, giving account of the credits number earned by the student. This result will be communicated through a document called Provisional Certificate: it displays the program final cost and it is non-binding for the candidate.

How to enrol

If you are willing to apply to the Master program, you need to fill in the Application Form, indicating the Master you wish to pursue and the relevant academic discipline (Major) - for example: Master of Science in Psychology, or Master of Arts in History. Attach your CV, a passport size photos and a copy of your ID card or passport.

If your application is successful, you will receive a Certificate of Enrollment and the payment plan as indicated in your application.

Accreditation - Education Quality - Reputation

The accreditation process is non-governmental and voluntary. A distance education University normally appeals to a private, regional or professional association for accreditation; when any University applies, the accrediting institution performs an overall assessment and grants the accreditation only when deemed appropriate. Note that each accrediting organization has its own accreditation criteria. No worldwide accreditation standards are currently available for any distance learning higher education institutions such as Selinus University.

A distance learning degree is useful for many purposes but not for all. It gives access to many professions and jobs while others require government-accredited diplomas. For this reason, before enrolling, we suggest our potential students to verify the correct degree use in their country. Professional reputation depends on people's skills as well as acquired know-how; that is only virtually represented by the obtained degree. We have to bear in mind that any company relies on problem-solving skills and competences owned by aspiring employees rather than on their degree.

For most companies, the completion of a distance university program is as valid as attending courses on a formal university campus. In fact, completing a distance degree course demonstrates an unquestionable level of will, responsibility, motivation and personal organization. These skills are highly valued in the workplace and explain why HR managers do not value employees earning degrees only.
